HER HUSBAND SUES MAN OF 70.

BOTH OVIATTS HAVE TAKEN A TURN AT BRINCKERHOFF.

Mrs. Oviatt Sued First to Hold On to Property Elderly Merchant Had Given Her for Love and Affection—Now Oviatt Wants $50,000 for the Affection.

Daniel D. Brinckerhoff, a merchant 70 years old, is the defendant in a suit for the alleged alienation of the affections of a young and pretty woman. David M. Oviatt is the injured husband, and he values at $50,000 the affections of his wife, Elsie C. Oviatt, which he says Brinckerhoff acquired. About eight months ago Mrs. Oviatt appeared in the Supreme Court as the plaintiff in a suit to restrain Brinckerhoff from foreclosing or transferring a $5,000 mortgage which he holds on property at Bay Seventeenth street, Bath Beach, belonging to her. In that suit it was alleged that she had purchased the property in March, 1903, with money she had obtained from Brinckerhoff, after they had been acquainted but a short time. To prove his affection for her, it was stated, Brinckerhoff had advanced her $15,000, but repented later and sued for the return of the money. A settlement was arrived at, by which he took a mortgage on the property, agreeing to bequeath the mortgage to her at his death. Brinckerhoff contended that he had been imposed upon. He has two married daughters and lives at 204 West 106th street. When he met Mrs. Oviatt he took quite a fancy to her, and they became fast friends. There was a plan that if she could get a divorce she would marry him, and meanwhile he made her present of large sums of money which she invested in jewelry and real estate. It is understood that the litigation between them was settled out of court. Counsel for Mr. Oviatt declined to discuss the new suit yesterday, except to confirm the statement that the suit had been begun a few weeks ago.

STUART'S INJURY SEVERE.
Doctors at the Hospital Do Not Appear to Be Hopeful.

At the Flushing Hospital last night it was said that the condition of Sterling M. Stuart, who was injured on Friday by falling from a window of his mother's home at 6 Locust street, was unchanged. As to his prospects of recovery, it was said that nothing definite could be said at present. He is suffering from a dislocated and fractured spine, and his condition was described as very serious.

Dr. Benoit, the house physician at the hospital, said no operation would be performed on Stuart at present and that it had not yet been positively decided whether one would be held at all. The doctor said the young man might linger for three or four weeks. Stuart is conscious and can talk, but the doctor says that he can remember nothing about how he met his injury. The unexpressed opinion at the hospital seems to be that he will die.

Bait Privilege in Newfoundland Suspended and May Be Withdrawn for Good.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., March 24.—The announcement to-day from St. John's that the Newfoundland Government had ordered its collectors of customs to refrain from issuing bait licenses to American fishermen, pending the assembling of the Legislature next week, is looked upon by the fishing interest here as the start of a contest similar to that which the Newfoundland Government has waged against the French fishermen of St. Pierre and Miquelon.

The principal source of bait for the Gloucester fleet when on the Grand Banks is Newfoundland ports. Much will depend upon the temper of the Newfoundland Legislature, which will meet next week, and after that body has acted the situation will become much clearer. There are said to be those among its members who favor doubling the present license fee of $1.50 per ton, while others favor barring out the Americans altogether.

The Gloucester fleet, the greater part of which is now away on its season's work, generally takes a supply of frozen herring from the home port for the first baiting. This frozen herring, by the way, is a Newfoundland product. By the middle of April this first baiting is exhausted, and by this time also herring begin to appear off the Newfoundland coast. Accordingly it has been the practice to run to these Newfoundland ports for a supply of herring for bait. Later, about the 1st of May, caplin put in an appearance, and these furnish the principal bait fish with which the greater part of the codfish catch is taken.

CLEARED AFTER 41 YEARS.

Stigma of Desertion Only Now Removed From a Veteran of the Civil War.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 25.—After forty-one years Sylvester Barton of Sayre has been cleared of the stigma of being a deserter and a few days ago he received an honorable discharge from his regiment, the Seventh Illinois Cavalry, which was mustered out of service at the close of the war. Barton, when a boy of seventeen, in 1864, ran away from home and joined the army. After much hard service he was taken, sick and disabled, to the military hospital at Memphis, Tenn. His convalescence was slow, and he was sent home on a furlough to recuperate. Through some mistake this furlough was not entered upon his company's books, and when the muster-out occurred he was put down as a deserter. Not until twenty years after did he discover this, upon his application for a pension, and he at once took steps to have the wrong righted. For twenty-one years this effort has continued and has only just been successful.

The tremendous output of this Dress Goods Store in the regular way brings us into extremely close relationship with the biggest makers here and abroad, as well as the substantial importers whose lines are represented in New York. No other store buys such quantities. We take advantage of every discount, and our prices are regularly brought down to the lowest level—a level far below that of any other store—with quality always at the top—the best. So, with their Spring orders practically filled, we have been able to go into the market and make this great purchase—a purchase which means

Man Charged With Hold-Up in a Saloon Has a Badge, but a Brooklyn Address.

Peter Hughes, who says he lives at 288 Pacific street, Brooklyn, yet asserts that he is a Hoboken policeman, was "looked up" in the Elizabeth street police station yesterday afternoon on a charge of attempting to hold up Alexander Raines of South Second street, Brooklyn, in Henry Wikler's saloon at Elm and White streets. Hughes was arrested by Roundman Hackett, who is attached to the District Attorney's office.

According to Hackett, Hughes picked up Raines, drunk, on the street, shoved him a badge and took him into a back room of the saloon. Hackett followed them. Raines, he says, was handing $3 over to Hughes when he interfered and told Hughes he was under arrest.

Hughes immediately put up a fight. He and Hackett fought all over the saloon and into the street. Hackett finally subdued him, cutting him badly on the head, and then took him before Assistant District Attorney Corrigan. Hughes was searched and a Hoboken policeman's badge, numbered 238, was found on him. He said he was a Hoboken policeman, but declined to say what he was doing over here. He was surly. Mr. Corrigan telephoned to the Hoboken police headquarters and was informed that Hackett had no policeman of the name of Peter Hughes. Nothing was learned about the wearer of badge 238. A representative of the Hoboken police department, it was promised, would be in the Centre street police court when Hughes is arraigned this morning.

SEA POOLROOM JUST A-GOING
And Never Goes—Now It's Just A-GOING on Monday.

One reason why the steamboat Mount Desert has not steamed out from the Battery Park pier as scheduled as a floating poolroom came to light yesterday when it developed that the managers are demanding from poolroom men $100 a day each for the privilege of making book on the vessel.

None of the gamblers would pay that much. As a matter of fact, it is doubtful whether any of them would give $50. A bookmaker at the racetrack has to pay only $100.

The managers of the craft, it is said, tell the poolroom proprietors that they can't afford to run the boat and charge less than $100. The "bankers," on the other hand, say it would be impossible for them to do business on that basis. They believe that only pikers would patronize the excursions.

There were only about twenty-five persons waiting at the pier for the vessel yesterday, and when she failed again to show up they guessed they had had enough of the deep sea proposition and would be content in the future to take their chance on land. The manager of the wireless company which installed apparatus on the boat and had expected to furnish the poolroom with the racetrack returns got out of the instance yesterday and began to take the instruments of the boat. Representatives of "Winter & Dow," the firm, unknown to the directory, which is said to have chartered the vessel, notified the wireless company, however, that there would be something doing on Monday and asked them to wait until then before doing anything further. The wireless people consented.
